Supreme Court Considering Girard Case

Tribunal Gives No
Indication When It
Will Reach Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court weighed the constitutional rights of GI William S. Girard today to determine whether they overbalance the government's decision to let him be tried in a Japanese court.

The court, which listened to nearly four hours of legal debate Monday, gave no indication how soon it will hand down its decision.

In winding up arguments seeking to block Girard's trial by Japan, Earl J. Carroll, one of his lawyers, said that if such a trial were permitted "it probably would destroy the morale of our soldiers—forever."

Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin contended the executive branch of the government acted within permissible discretion in deciding to yield to Japan's demand that Girard be tried in its courts for the death of a Japanese woman. Rankin said that among other factors considered was evidence that Girard enticed the woman to come forward and pick up scrap metal on a firing range. Rankin noted, however, that Girard has denied he induced the woman to approach him.

Woman Shot In Back

The woman, Mrs. Naka Sakai, was fatally wounded last Jan. 30. Girard is accused of shooting her in the back with an empty cartridge casing fired from a grenade launcher. He was assigned at the time to guard a machine gun and some field jackets.

Carroll asked the court: "How can you turn over to Japan a soldier who carries out his duty?" To do this, he said, might result in a situation where a State Department diplomat abroad, endangered by an advancing rioter, might turn to a Marine and say, "Shoot him as he comes over the threshold."

"The Marine," said Carroll, "might very well hand his gun to the diplomat and say, 'Here, shoot him yourself. I don't want to be tried.'"

Carroll's colleague Joseph S. Robinson, contended that the status-of-forces agreement with Ja-

Accused Spy Says France Offers Asylum

PARIS (AP)—Russian-born George Zlatovsk, indicted in New York on a charge of spying for the Soviet Union, declared today France has granted political asylum to him and his wife Jane. A government spokesman denied it.

The spokesman, a Foreign Ministry official, said the question of political asylum would come up only if and when the United States formally asks extradition of the couple.

The United States has not yet presented such a request, though official moves are under way. The case was being discussed in the U. S. Embassy and the French Foreign Ministry. The question is complicated because extradition also would involve the French Justice and Interior ministries.

As the spokesman outlined procedure: As soon as a request is in hand, the case will be handed to a "chambre mise en accusation," the rough equivalent of a grand jury. The United States must present all the facts, as in any other request for extradition. The court will have three weeks to decide the case.

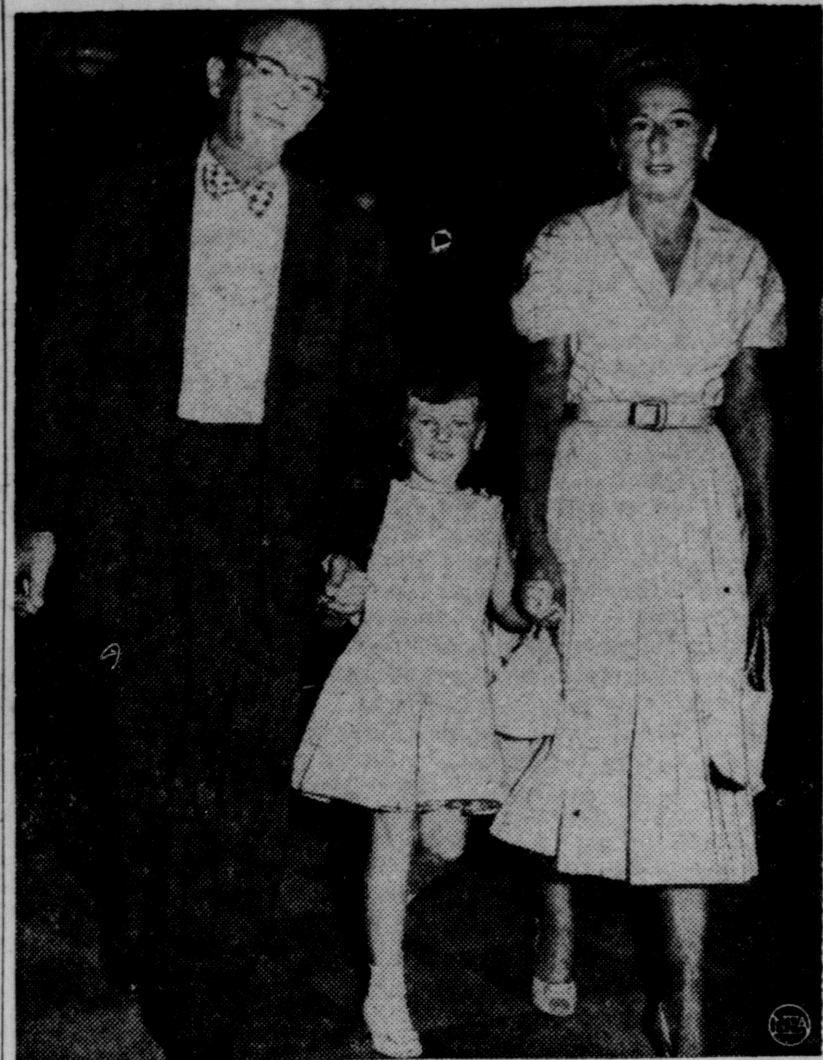

Zlatovsk, 47, a Russian-born naturalized American who formerly was a lieutenant in U. S. Army intelligence, declared in an interview at his Left Bank apartment: "The French have given us political asylum. We are their guests. We can say nothing which would embarrass our hosts."

Heat Wave Kills 288 In Europe

Rains Bring Relief
To Scorched Area

ROME (AP)—The death toll of one of Europe's worst July heat waves rose today to at least 288, including 52 enfeebled inmates in Italy's crowded homes for the aged.

Showers appeared to have broken the nine-day torrid wave across northern Europe. But throughout scorched central Europe and down the sun-blasted Italian peninsula deaths rocketed, and there was no relief in sight. A week of 100-degree temperatures had taken at least 96 lives in Italy.

West Germany had at least 68 dead, 50 of them from drowning. Temperatures there were slipping back to the middle 80s, however. Water shortages and danger of infection caused some communities to close public swimming pools.

Austria, still in the grip of the worst heat wave since 1873, counted 35 dead. The engineer of a local train near Wiener Neustadt collapsed and fell from his cab. The train ran with no one at the controls until a fireman noted what had happened and pulled an emergency brake.

The Netherlands had 29 drownings but temperatures had dropped into the 70s. France had 25 deaths and Belgium 12.

The heat wave appeared ended for Britain, with cool winds and some rain. 9.59 880.05 ta27

Warren Youth Knives Mother, Older Sister

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A Warren boy who stabbed his mother and sister because, he said, he wanted to "get back at his father" will undergo a mental examination at Woodside Hospital today.

Albert John Mellon Jr., 12, told Trumbull County juvenile authorities Monday that he stabbed his mother and his sister in their sleep because his father "was too strict."

Mrs. Mellon, 43, was reported in fair condition at Warren's Trumbull Memorial Hospital with three stab wounds in her chest. Her 13-year-old daughter Lois was also reported in fair condition with a knife slash across her back.

The boy's father is stationed with the U. S. Air Force at the Youngstown Municipal AFB.

Man Confesses Murder Of Boy

Wanted Youth's Skull
For Love Potion

VINELAND, N.J. (AP)—Juan Rivera Aponte is to be arraigned on a murder charge today in the black magic slaying of a 13-year-old boy.

Authorities said the 47-year-old poultry farm worker had signed a statement confessing that he killed Roger Carletto last Oct. 13 to get the lad's skull for use in a love potion.

Roger lived near the chicken farm of Idek Rosenblum where Aponte worked. The boy had been the object of a wide search for nine months. Aponte himself led police last Tuesday to a shallow grave on the farm where the skeleton of the boy was uncovered.

But Aponte, a Puerto Rican who has worked for Rosenblum for three years, accused his employer of killing Roger and Rosenblum initially was charged with murder.

Police Monday took a tape-recorded statement in Spanish from Aponte and said he signed a transcribed copy.

Rosenblum, a 35-year-old Polish displaced person, then was released from jail in Bridgeton. He got a joyous kiss from his wife, Celina, 28. Both had been confined in Nazi Germany's Auschwitz concentration camp during World War II.

Vineland Public Safety Director Arthur L. Joseph said Aponte's statement completely exonerates the Rosenblums.

In Aponte's shack were publications in Spanish dealing with black magic, police said. And he reported Aponte showed them the top portion of young Roger's skull, suspended on a string in a kerosene stove.

Joseph said Roger happened to visit the shack the evening of last Oct. 13 when Aponte had just come to a chapter dealing with the use of human skulls as love potions.

According to Joseph, Aponte

East-West formula be worked out for destroying all stocks of nuclear weapons.

Russia's Valerian Zorin rejected key points of the latest U.S. proposals in a 90-minute speech before the five-nation U.N. Disarmament subcommittee.

Terms Speech Disappointing
British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd termed the speech disappointing while Jules Moch of France said it "seemed propagandist."

One U.S. official said the speech would disappoint anyone looking for concessions from the Kremlin. But he contended that at least Zorin took no backward step.

On the positive side, Zorin again said his government was convinced a partial disarmament treaty could be worked out. Apparently he meant it could if the West accepted the Soviet proposals.

Rejects U. S. Proposal
The Soviet delegate rejected the U.S. proposal that scientists be assigned to map out how a suspension of nuclear tests might be enforced.

"To bring experts together now is a waste of time," he said.

He again demanded that nuclear tests be suspended at once for two or three years. Russia, he added, would consider Western demands that such a suspension be linked with a cutoff of nuclear weapon production. But he renewed demands—which the West has rejected—that such an agreement contain a renunciation of use of nuclear weapons.

Ban On Production
After the tests have been stopped, he said, a limited disarmament pact should call for (A) a complete ban on production of nuclear arms, (B) arrangements for destroying all stocks of nuclear arms and (C) a big power pledge renouncing use of nuclear weapons.

One person was injured and two others arrested Monday in a series of four minor auto mishaps on district roads.

Thad Wilks, 49, of Youngstown, was treated at the Central Clinic for lacerations above the eye after his car went off the side of the road and struck a tree on Rt. 62, one-half mile north of Salem, at 9:20 a.m.

An auto operated by Fred Carlisle, 16, of Lisbon sideswiped a car driven by Fred Csepke, 24, of Rd 1, Salem, on a curve on the Black Road just northwest of East Liverpool at 2:40 p.m. yesterday. Carlisle was cited in juvenile court for going left of center.

Fred Baughman, 38, of Wellsville, was cited for reckless operation after he fell asleep at the wheel of his car on Rt. 45, four miles north of Wellsville, Monday at 8:35 p.m.

State highway patrolmen said Baughman struck some mail boxes, went to the left side of the road and into a ditch.

Ivan Baringer, 44, of Rd 1, Salem, escaped injury when his car rolled over and struck a tree on Rt. 46, five miles north of Columbiana, Monday at 9:30 a.m.

Judge Gives Killer Stay Of Execution

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Leslie Irvin, Indiana's "mad dog" killer, scheduled today in the electric chair early today, was granted a last minute stay of execution Monday night.

An indefinite delay of Irvin's execution was ordered by Judge Walter C. Lindley of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals five hours before his scheduled execution in the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City.

Judge Lindley delayed the execution after conferring for 90 minutes with two of Irvin's lawyers at Lindley's Danville home.

The judge issued the stay until the 7th District Court of Appeals can decide whether it will review the case. The court is in summer recess and will not reconvene until September.

Irvin, 33-year-old pipefitter, was convicted in the holdup-slaying of Wesley Kerr in an Evansville, Ind. filling station on Dec. 23, 1954.

SEGREGATIONIST TRIAL — John Kasper, center, waits with two unidentified men for the beginning of his trial with 15 others in Knoxville, Tenn., on charges of trying to block integration at Clinton High School by force and intimidation. The trial was delayed while defense and prosecution gave exhaustive examination to prospective jurors.

4 Accepted For Jury Duty In Clinton Trial

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A jam-packed crowd was expected in federal court today to watch opposing lawyers continue their cautious maneuvers toward completing the jury for the "Clinton trial," a key test in the battle over segregation in public schools.

Three men and a woman were accepted for duty Monday after searching examinations, pivoting on the words, "prejudice," and "mixing the races."

The jury will hear the story of the rioting last autumn in the little town of Clinton, Tenn., when Negro students were enrolled under court order in the high school, previously all white. It is the first state-supported secondary school in Tennessee where integration was attempted.

As a result of the violence, 13 Tennesseans and a Northern segregationist, John Kasper, were indicted for criminal contempt. They are charged with violating a federal injunction against interference with integration.

The trials, which opened Monday, immediately took on a unique and highly dramatic character. Five, six and sometimes more attorneys from Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Maryland crowded together around a table on the right of Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor—who issued the injunction the government claims was knowingly flouted.

Bradovich Given Penitentiary Term

LISBON — George Bradovich, 46, of Youngstown, was given a one to seven year sentence in the Ohio State Penitentiary by Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp this morning.

He pleaded guilty to grand larceny of the Fitzpatrick Clothing Store in Columbiana last December.

Judge Sharp also gave him 90 days in the county jail on a petty larceny charge at the Holloway and Son Clothing store in Columbiana. Judge Sharp ruled he already had served 5 months and left this apply on the 90-day sentence.

An appeal is before the Seventh District Court of Appeals on the grand larceny charge. After Bradovich pleaded guilty to the grand larceny charge, Prosecutor G. William Brokaw filed an habitual criminal charge against him.

Republicans Assigned Shifts For 'Talkathon'

Knowland Directs
Drive To Bring Bill
On Senate Floor

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) told President Eisenhower today the current Senate debate on civil rights legislation may continue four to eight weeks and possibly longer.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans girded today for around-the-clock sessions as Southerners stiffened their resistance to bringing the House-passed civil rights bill before the Senate.

Republican Leader Knowland of California asked his GOP colleagues to stand by for the beginning—possibly Wednesday but more likely later in the week—of 24-hour efforts to wear out Dixie opponents talking against the bill. Sign For 'Sit-Out' Duty

With Knowland directing the campaign to get the measure before the Senate for an eventual vote, GOP members were asked to sign up for periods when they will be on hand to sit out the Southern talk.

In a typical assignment, Sen. Allott (R-Colo.) said he had been asked to be on deck from 10 until 12 o'clock, each morning and night. Sen. Morton (R-Ky.) has said earlier he has day and night hours on a different shift.

Sen. Mundt (R-SD), who is unenthusiastic about the House bill in its present form, said he had declined to accept any assignment outside the Senate's regular meeting hours.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), commander of the Southern opposition forces, said he is ready to cope with round-the-clock sessions during the Senate's regular meeting hours.

School Board Meets, Plans to Convene Again

Representatives of the Ohio Edison Co. and the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. gave comparisons of appliance costs, styles and length of use relative to installation in the new high school's cafeteria at a special meeting of the Board of Education last night.

W. R. Readshaw, commercial representative of the Ohio Edison Co. from the Youngstown office; Jerry Foster, Salem commercial representative of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., and Don Rinehart of the Ohio Fuel, spoke.

No decision was reached by the board as to which type of fuel will be used, although some members appeared to favor gas and others the use of both electric and gas appliances.

Mrs. Dorothy Crook, high-school home economics teacher, participated in the discussion following the talks. At the session were E. S. Kerr, superintendent of schools, Darrel Fadely, business manager, and Board Member Donald Lease, Orein Naragon, Bob Heddeston, Al Fitch and Harold Smith.

Because board members will be leaving for vacations the latter part of this month and during August, it was decided to hold the regular meeting, originally scheduled for Aug. 5, this Monday night at 7:30.

High School architectural representatives are expected to appear at the meeting which will feature a run-through of all facets of the high school building project.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

If that London disarmament clamor clips our Air Force, it will knock our prosperity into a tailspin. If we cut production of conventional weapons as we are now planning to clip the wings of the Air Force, we'll slip into a depression.

Victor Riesel

Somewhere, somebody has overlooked the fact that the guided missile and aircraft business is the nation's biggest employer of labor—some 900,000 men and women, far more than the auto and steel producing industries.

Somewhere has overlooked the fact that defense production is the bread and butter of a thousand communities—and that one out of every three workers in this country earns his living supplying the steel, the aluminum, the textiles, the wiring, the power, the tools and the skills for the arsenals of the Western world. Somebody has forgotten that the total thus employed reaches towards 15 million people.

SOMEBODY has forgotten that even talk of disarmament has forced cutbacks which will result in firings. And that job-hunters don't buy refrigerators, TV sets and new cars.

Somewhere has forgotten all this—but not the 165 men at an unreported conference in Denver's Shirley Savoy Hotel the other day.

These were the leaders of the aircraft and guided missile division of Al Haye's International Assn. of Machinists, AFL-CIO.

Few men outside the Pentagon know more about the giant, futuristic magic bullets than these 165 men.

They came from the nation's aircraft plants from Boeing, which turns out the Bomarc long-range interceptor missile, a supersonic ground-to-air missile.

They came from Convair, which whips together the Atlas, the intercontinental ballistic missile.

They came, too, from Douglas, out of which comes the Thor, the intermediate-range ballistic missile.

AND THEY CAME from Bendix, maker of the Talos, and from the plants which make the Terrier, the slim, needle-nosed supersonic weapon, which can be spat from a ship in all weather.

These men spoke for over 60,000 union machinists upon whose skills depend the freedom of the air above us and our allies.

Their own leaders spoke and were joined by only one other man—Leonard Woodcock, vice-president of the United Auto Workers Union.

The Auto Union, too, faces the cutback problem for it has thousands of members in aircraft factories. And these two unions will work together. For what?

Certainly not to shout for guns instead of butter. But certainly to point out that with disarmament comes the problem of bread and butter for hundreds of thousands of workers.

The problem is here. It has not awaited the diplomatic decisions. There have been heavy cutbacks which have slashed overtime work by as much as 16 hours, and thousands of machinists, accustomed to the extra pay, are looking for second jobs.

FURTHER CUTS will slash the work week to 35 or 32 hours. So the two unions are preparing to argue with the "ghost at the bargaining table." That's the Air Force. It approves every contract signed between the unions and the aircraft companies because it pays the bills.

The Air Force is the final power and it may find itself in a series of duels with these unions for 40 hours' pay for the 35 and even the 32 hour week.

So you may even see these two unions, with a combined membership of some 2,300,000, actually make the first fight for the four day week, anticipating the siege of the auto industry itself.

This could happen early in 1958. All major missile and aircraft contracts expire next year except United Aircraft.

THE UNITED AIRCRAFT contract runs out Dec. 5. The others opt for tough bargaining February and March—covering just about all production workers—600,000 of them.

This crisis will develop months before the auto industry contracts are up—and Walter Reuther and Al Haye may well use the earlier moment to set a pattern for the summertime bargaining for a shorter work week at full week's pay.

Already these labor leaders are saying among themselves that the disarmament conference should be followed by another parley—a high level, labor-industry-government confab to make certain that the nation's prosperity isn't grounded along with all that push-button stuff.

HUGE STADIUM PLANNED CINCINNATI (AP)—A proposed Ohio riverfront stadium for the Cincinnati Redlegs baseball team, with parking for 4,000 autos, would cost about 19 million dollars. That is the report Monday by city planners, who estimated costs at $3,500,000 for land, $5,500,000 for the stadium and 11 million for the garages.

Eternal Shelter

By HAL BOYLE

ALCOA, Tenn. (AP)—William Andrew Nicholson is an 80-year-old carpenter who built an everlasting home because he confidently expects to live forever.

It is a fortress-like stone dwelling of 14 rooms and was hand built by Nicholson and his wife over an eight-year period. It is known locally as "millennium manor" and "the house that faith built."

"It cannot rust or rot," said Nicholson, whose keen blue eyes and white hair make him look like a patriarch in a striped sport shirt, "and if nothing wrecks it there is no reason why it shouldn't last a million years."

And Nicholson himself is serene, certain that a million years from now he will be happy, alive and content with his house and lot.

His reason is simple. He loves Jesus Christ, and he accepts as a statement of literal fact that Biblical promise that whosoever loves Christ will have everlasting life.

"I believe in the Bible, and I believe in life," he said. "I believe in preparing to live instead of preparing to die."

So it was that in 1938 the kindly carpenter and his wife, who had borne him 10 children, began at the age of 61 to build an eternal shelter for an eternal life on earth.

There was to go into it nothing that could corrode or decay—neither wood nor nail. Only cement, rock and Tennessee pink marble.

Nicholson worked eight hours a day at his trade, then worked six to eight hours more on his home. He pushed 300-pound marble stones to their place in a wheelbarrow. His wife poured the mortar. The job took them eight long, exhausting years.

The house, completed in December, 1946, is two stories tall. Its outside walls are from two to three feet thick, its ceiling three to five feet. It has two bathrooms furnished with huge stone and cement chairs. The roof alone contains 432 tons of rock.

Six years ago Mrs. Nicholson died of cancer, leaving her husband lonely but still sure he himself will enjoy eternal life.

"It was hard to be parted from her after so many years," he said. "My wife believed in me, but her faith in eternal life was weak. She tried to believe, but she had her doubts. There came times when she talked of dying."

Nicholson's unusual home has become something of a tourist attraction. He says he has been offered $150,000 for it, but has no intention of selling.

"What would I want with the money?" he asked. "I have everything I need."

"I haven't been sick for 40 years. I don't worry about the atomic bomb or anything else. I let nothing bother me. I keep healthy by serving God the best I know how. I don't go to church. I used to belong to a church, but got out. They didn't like my views."

One of Nicholson's views that have led some of his neighbors to regard him as eccentric is his conviction that the world will be destroyed soon (probably by 1959), but that 144,000 righteous, including himself, will be saved.

However long he lives himself, the rugged, picturesque home he built stands as a temple of love—a poor man's pyramid—the testimony in stone of a might faith that stirred a simple heart to a dream of timeless grandeur.

Point System In Operation

Traffic Violators Receiving Warnings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Warning notices are going out daily to an average of about 30 motorists in danger of losing their driver licenses under Ohio's new penalty point system, designed to make highways safer.

George C. Braden, state registrar of motor vehicles, said today some 300 motorists have received warnings since the law went into effect June 2.

The new law requires Braden to notify drivers by mail when they receive five or more points. Anyone receiving 12 points faces suspension of his driving rights for a year.

So far no one has amassed 12 points, but Braden said a few motorists soon may be "eligible". The new system works this way:

All courts are required to notify the state bureau of convictions and bond forfeitures for traffic law violations within 10 days. The bureau assesses the points and keeps the totals.

The bureau must notify clerks of court in a driver's home county when he has received 12 or more points within two years from his first conviction or bond forfeiture.

The clerk then must notify the driver by registered mail within 10 days of the time and place for a hearing to determine whether he is an "habitual violator". The hearing must be held within 30 days of notification to the clerk.

Common Pleas Court can suspend the driving license of a motorist convicted under the point system law for up to a year or place him on probation.

A maximum penalty of $500 fine and six months in jail is provided for motorists who drive in violation of the court order.

Drivers get their licenses back after satisfying the court decree and have their point record wiped clean. They start a new score for further convictions and bond forfeitures.

Six points are entered for traffic manslaughter, driving while drunk or under the influence of drugs, leaving an accident scene or driving while a license is under suspension or revocation; three points for reckless operation and two for speeding and other moving violations.

The bureau said the point system law requires no minimum penalty for driving while a license is under suspension.

The present driver license law, still in effect, permits suspension for up to three years for a felony conviction in connection with the use of a motor vehicle. The same law also carries a minimum jail sentence of two days for driving while a license is suspended. Maximum penalty under that law is a $500 fine and six months in jail.

Braden said warning notices under the point system urge motorists to avoid getting a higher score.

"Our driving records show . . . the warnings begin. Then comes this plea:

"We are certain that with increased effort on your part you can join the thousands of Ohio drivers who obey the traffic laws and keep a clear driving record."

"This department is responsible for the improvement of drivers operating upon the Ohio highways, and is authorized to seek suspension of the license of any person whose record shows that he is a repeating violator of the traffic laws or is a negligent operator of a motor vehicle."

"If additional traffic convictions and accidents are recorded on your driving record of sufficient point value to increase your total permit points to 12 or more within 24 months from your first conviction, we will be compelled to ask suspension of your driver license."

Schandels At New Alexander Wed 25 Years

NEW ALEXANDER — Mr. and Mrs. Pius M. Schandel of New Alexander observed their 25th wedding anniversary June 30. Seventy guests greeted the couple during the open house held at their home.

Pius M. Schandel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Schandel of RD 1, Minerva, and Esther Guthrie, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Scott Guthrie of New Alexander, were married June 21, 1932 by Rev. O. Gross of New Cumberland, W. Va.

The only surviving son, John, now 51, said there would be no callers and requested that no flowers be sent. Friends were urged instead to make donations, if they wish, to the Heart Fund.

Group Will Discuss Ohio River Pollution

CINCINNATI (AP)—A discussion of methods to prevent salt pollution in the Ohio River will be one of the main topics to come before the quarterly meeting of the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission here Wednesday.

Bulcher A. Poole of Indianapolis, director of environmental sanitation for the Indiana State Board of Health, will take over as chairman of the commission, succeeding Kenneth M. Lloyd of Youngstown, Ohio.

The commission has invited 150 members of its industry-advisory committees to express their views on the regulation of salt discharges.

Poole declared that at times of low flow in the upper stretches of the Ohio River "abnormal amounts" of salt are detected.

"Although the quantities observed do not represent any hazard to public health, they do constitute what might result in an unjustified impairment of water quality for industrial purposes," Poole said. "Salt in water is one of the factors that hastens corrosion of metal piping and structures as well as interferes with the generation of steam."

"We propose to initiate preventive measures before a serious problem can occur."

Consensus In The Kremlin

Russia's Communist dictatorship has developed a bloodless technique for settling disputes. The Communist party's presidium, where policy questions are decided by majority vote, can isolate the holders of a minority opinion and cut them from power without a purge.

Once the minority members have been taken out of play, they are impotent. They have no official voice. Because public opinion carries no influence in Russian affairs anyway, they would satisfy no purpose in speaking.

Nikita Khrushchev has achieved a kind of government by consensus which no foreign observer can dismiss with a shrug.

It is capable of strong and incisive action. It is a form which has demonstrated adaptability to changing circumstances that never was present during Stalin's lifetime.

Khrushchev is stronger than Stalin because he is more confident of his ability to survive than Stalin ever was. Khrushchev does not need to kill his opponents. He has caused them to be voted out of existence.

This marks a significant evolution in the hurly-burly of one-party dictatorship. An answer has been found to the question which few believed could be answered: What will keep the Communist party in power when Stalin's personal terrorism is ended by his death?

Conjectures about the policies of the reconstituted presidium are too iffy to be taken seriously. But the fact that a minority has been disposed of bloodlessly and a strengthened majority is ready for business is more important than any conjectures.

Washington believes the new consensus in the Kremlin promises to be more agreeable than the old one, which had been measurably more agreeable than that of the Stalin era or the interim period when Khrushchev was developing a technique for running a dictatorship without Stalinism.

The weaknesses of party dictatorship remain. But Khrushchev's bloodless technique for getting consensus is not one of them.

Cold War Truce

What difference would it make if the right name were given to the effort centered in London to find acceptable terms for limited disarmament?

The right name, of course, is "truce."

The United States, the Soviet Union and Great Britain are deadlocked in a cold atomic war.

Each of them has done about as much as its present resources can support. In any event, it is reasonable to suppose that the United States and the Soviet Union have held nothing back. Britain, which has an understanding with the United States calling for mutual support, does not need to go the whole way to prove it belongs in the atomic era and can own and operate its own fireballs.

The circumstances of a truce have materialized, or are close enough at hand to warrant serious attention.

If a truce can be negotiated, it will signify only that the combatants are willing to call off their cold war.

There will have been no victory and no surrender.

There will have been simple recognition of an obvious fact—that the fireballers have gone as far as they are willing and able to go at this time with demonstrations of ability to destroy and cripple.

When history is written, that may be the version. The combatants called off their cold atomic war in 1957 because it had become obvious there was no future in it.

Sen. Russell's Proposal

When the proper time comes, promises Sen. Russell of Georgia, he will appeal to his colleagues in Congress to let the people of the United States hold a plebiscite on the civil rights legislation pending in Congress.

The catch is, there is no provision for a plebiscite in the Constitution. Sen. Russell may have to settle for the next best thing, which would be a proposed constitutional amendment, as prescribed in Article V of the Constitution.

The proposal would be to repeal Amendments XIV and XV, which gave all citizens of the United States equal rights, proportional representation in the House of Representatives and specified that no citizen's right to vote could be denied or abridged because of race or color.

If it were approved by two thirds of both houses of Congress and ratified by three fourths of the states, the rights of colored people could be wiped out wherever and whenever white supremacists wanted to wipe them out. History could be turned back 90 years.

Sen. Russell and his colleagues have no more chance of doing this than they have of calling a plebiscite, which would be equally disastrous to their bitter-end cause.

Many travelers want to see America first, and we all want to see it last.

Might Or Right

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Use Of Militia Real Issue In Civil Rights Fight

a nd coercion for faith in the voluntary processes of reason.

It involves not solely a means of assuring voting rights — for many Negroes do vote in the South and several have been elected to city councils there — but a question of reaching into the whole social order in the South with laws authorizing the use of military power to secure "obedience" to the Supreme Court's decision on school "integration." Yet the court itself admitted in the same decision that it was influenced primarily by sociological doctrines rather than constitutional precedents.

FOR THE SCHOOL question and the voting problem are interwoven in the "civil rights" controversy and, curiously enough, the remedy proposed would take away the civil right of a citizen to a jury trial the principle of which is imbedded in the Constitution.

Just because there have been a few instances of racial prejudice in some jury trials in the South, it is argued by various members of Congress and executive officials in their speeches that none of the tens of millions of people in the South can be trusted to give an impartial trial by jury.

This is a blanket indictment more severe than ever has been leveled in America against a substantial number of fellow-citizens by the representatives of another segment of the nation.

For the proposal implies that because the processes of reason are beset with difficulties there must be resort to the theory that "the end justifies the means."

This same thing happened once before in perhaps the most shameful chapter in American history when, after the war between the states had ended and a general amnesty had been proclaimed, military units from the North were sent into the legislative chambers of the Southern States.

AT THE POINT of a bayonet, ratification of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution was compelled in 10 states after each had rejected it.

Southern members of Congress, thereupon were arbitrarily disqualified from voting in either the House or the Senate, notwithstanding the fact that previously the Southern members and their legislatures had in due form approved the 13th Amendment abolishing slavery and this action had been accepted as legal ratification. No historian of standing in either the North or the South disputes these facts.

For 90 years there has been a virtual truce in the northern and southern conflict as to the scope of the 14th Amendment, and the racial problems it presumably covered. Meanwhile, there has been nevertheless a gradual evolution with tremendous progress toward a better understanding between the races.

The doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities in public schools which was upheld as the "supreme law of the land" until 1954 was a kind of "modus vivendi" — a compromise between apparently irreconcilable viewpoints yet one that actually encouraged more and more flexibility through the years.

NOW THE TRUCE has been broken and, instead of trying to adjust conflicting viewpoints by letting each state or each community within a state decide for itself how it shall move toward the solution of its own social problems — a basic American concept of self-government — the confusing court decisions and the threat of coercive "civil rights" legislation are retarding progress.

Impatiently the doors are open to bitter resentments which will grow in intensity because compulsion is the wrong way to deal with social problems in a democracy. Inevitably also there will be revived the whole controversy over the unmoral and illegal way by which the 14th Amendment itself was forced into the Constitution in the first place.

"I speak in a spirit of great sadness," said Sen. Russell, (D-Ga.) the other day in the Senate. "If Congress is driven to pass this bill in its present form, it will cause, unspeakable confusion, bitterness and bloodshed in a great section of our common country."

"IF IT IS proposed to move into the South in this fashion, the concentration camps may as well be prepared now because there will not be enough jails to hold the people of the South who will oppose the use of raw federal power forcibly to commingle white and Negro children in the same schools and places of public entertainment."

Thus after nearly a century of debate, America is again hearing speeches in Congress about the use of military forces to back up social viewpoints.

This, comes ironically enough, at a time when spokesmen for the United States in the world at large are appealing constantly for the "renunciation of the use of force" as a means of dealing with human friction.

Business Revival

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Dull days in the metal industries aren't fazing the optimists.

They predict today that steel should see a marked revival before the month is over. The battered copper industry talks of getting supply and demand back on speaking terms before the summer is gone. Only in the zinc and lead industries do the optimists look wistfully to a much later date.

Steel's problems are mostly domestic. Copper's plight is a world wide one with U. S. producers caught in a bind. Lead and zinc men feel their current troubles are due to government action, or lack of it.

In all the industries there is growing belief that their customers are about to come to the rescue.

Steel men report that orders are picking up. They are coming from two important groups of users—the auto and the appliance makers—whose indifference in recent weeks saddened the steel industry.

Steel's plight isn't very severe anyway, and its distribution among the various companies is notably irregular. Some are still producing near capacity while others — including some of the biggest — have expected total production of the industry in the summer months to average 80 per cent of capacity or even less. For 90 years there has been a virtual truce in the northern and southern conflict as to the scope of the 14th Amendment, and the racial problems it presumably covered. Meanwhile, there has been nevertheless a gradual evolution with tremendous progress toward a better understanding between the races.

The doctrine of "separate but equal" facilities in public schools which was upheld as the "supreme law of the land" until 1954 was a kind of "modus vivendi" — a compromise between apparently irreconcilable viewpoints yet one that actually encouraged more and more flexibility through the years.

NOW THE TRUCE has been broken and, instead of trying to adjust conflicting viewpoints by letting each state or each community within a state decide for itself how it shall move toward the solution of its own social problems — a basic American concept of self-government — the confusing court decisions and the threat of coercive "civil rights" legislation are retarding progress.

Impatiently the doors are open to bitter resentments which will grow in intensity because compulsion is the wrong way to deal with social problems in a democracy. Inevitably also there will be revived the whole controversy over the unmoral and illegal way by which the 14th Amendment itself was forced into the Constitution in the first place.

"I speak in a spirit of great sadness," said Sen. Russell, (D-Ga.) the other day in the Senate. "If Congress is driven to pass this bill in its present form, it will cause, unspeakable confusion, bitterness and bloodshed in a great section of our common country."

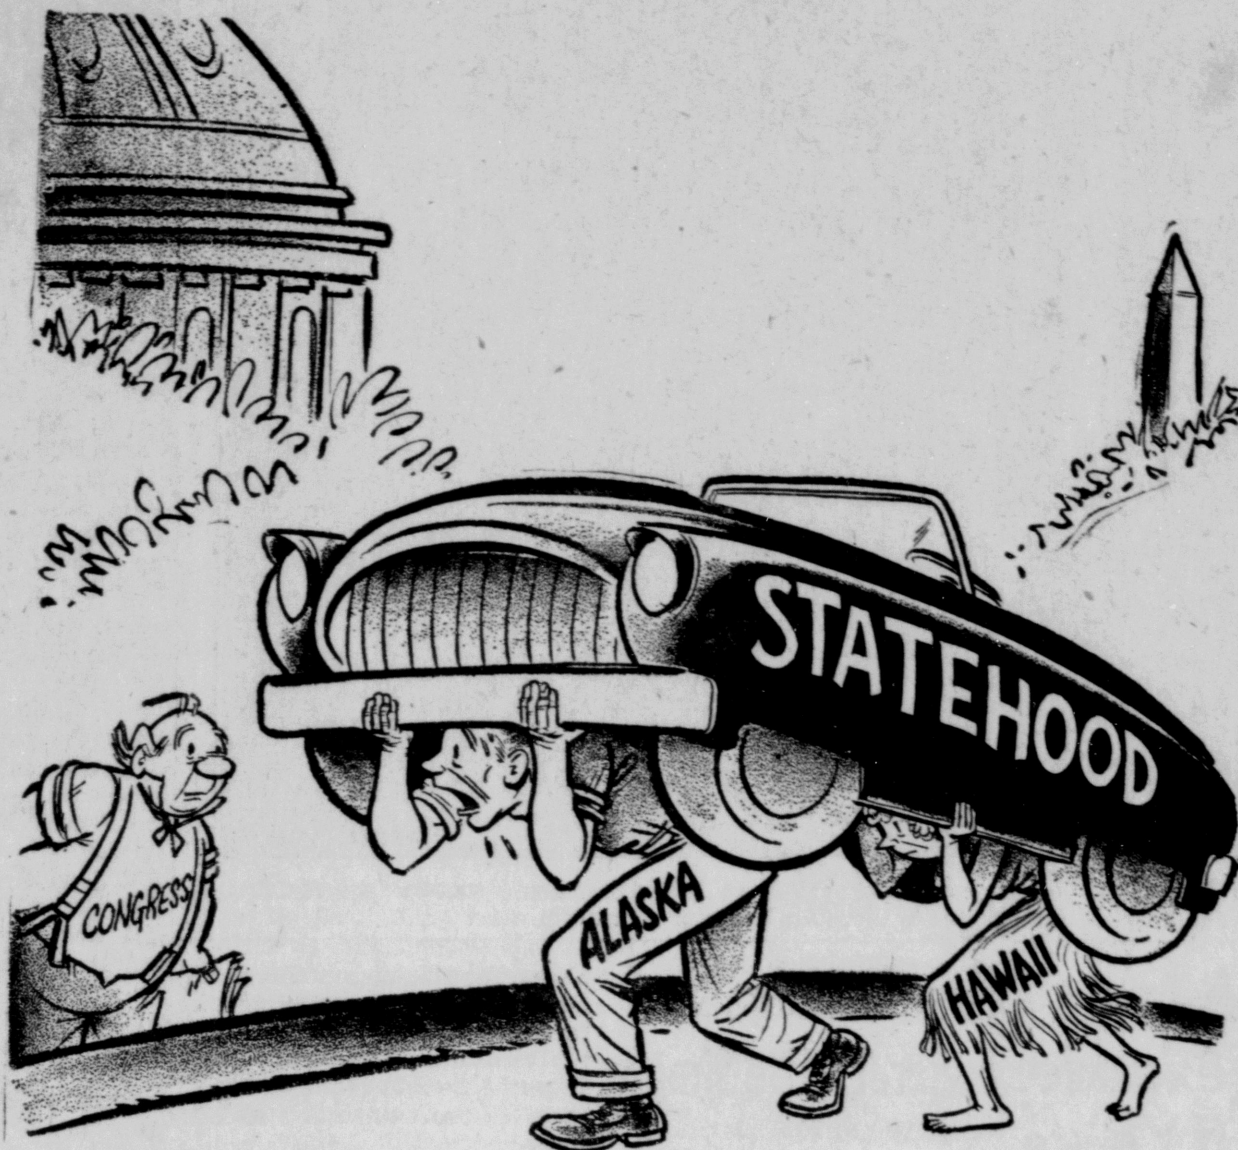

"IF IT IS proposed to move into the South in this fashion, the concentration camps may as well be prepared now because there will not be enough jails to hold the people of the South who will oppose the use of raw federal power forcibly to commingle white and Negro children in the same schools and places of public entertainment."

Thus after nearly a century of debate, America is again hearing speeches in Congress about the use of military forces to back up social viewpoints.

This, comes ironically enough, at a time when spokesmen for the United States in the world at large are appealing constantly for the "renunciation of the use of force" as a means of dealing with human friction.

Filibusters Shaping Up

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — This is an ABC on the Southern filibuster shaping up in the Senate against the civil rights bill which the Eisenhower administration says is intended to protect Negroes' voting rights in the South.

Southerners say it is so "cunningly" written it could be used to force racial integration. A filibuster's purpose is to prevent passage of a bill by talking against it until its supporters give up.

Southerners can make two filibusters: (1) against a motion to bring up the bill and, if they lose on this, then (2) against the bill itself. They will probably make their main pitch on the second. It's less exhausting.

There are two ways to break a filibuster:

1. By keeping the Senate in session around the clock until the Southerners are worn out. They could keep going for months if they were allowed to go home every night at 5 o'clock.

2. By invoking cloture, which means voting to shut off debate. This can be done only on a two-thirds vote of the full Senate: 64 of the 96 members. It's hard to get. Some of those outside the South may want to filibuster someday.

For perhaps a week, as a warm-up, Southerners may filibuster against a motion to bring up the bill. You can see why this, if the Southerners tried to go all-out, is exhausting.

On a filibuster against a motion each senator is limited to two speeches. About 20 Southerners are expected to take part in the filibuster. If they wanted to talk against the motion itself for weeks then —

Each in turn would have to talk until he was literally ready to drop, not once but twice. And all the time he talked a senator would have to be on his feet. If he sat down to rest he'd lose the floor and his speech would be over.

If the Southerners try a full-blown filibuster against the motion, Sen. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, may try to kill it by wearing them out in around-the-clock session.

He could probably force such a session, since it requires only a majority vote and not the hard-to-get two-thirds vote which is necessary to shut off debate.

If, under the punishing pressure of endless sessions, the Southerners abandoned their fight against the motion to bring up the bill, then the bill itself would be up for debate.

A brand new filibuster — this time against the bill itself—could start. From a physical standpoint this could be easier on the Southerners for a number of reasons.

Any senator could offer as many amendments to the bill as he wished. Each amendment is debatable. And each senator is allowed two speeches on each amendment.

The amendments don't have to be germane—that is, they don't have to deal with civil rights. But the Southerners will probably offer germane amendments, dozens of them.

They want the bill killed. Failing that, they want it so amended it will have no teeth and be practically meaningless. Supporters of the bill couldn't hope to shut off debate on a single amendment merely by a motion to do so.

Debate on an amendment can't be stopped except by unanimous consent. One Southern "no" would finish such a move. But there is another way to end debate on an amendment: that's through a motion to table it, or shove it aside.

That requires a simple majority vote. Before there could be a vote, a quorum of senators would have to be present. A quorum is 48. So there's have to be a quorum call. Senators could use up a couple of hours drifting in to answer this call. More time would be used in voting.

So it could go on: an amendment offered; many speeches, lasting for hours or days on each amendment; a motion to table; a quorum call; a vote; a new amendment offered; new debate for hours; and on and on.

Through all this the Southerners would have many rest periods. Then how could the filibuster be ended?

By passing the kind of bill that satisfied the Southerners—that is, one so thoroughly amended as to be toothless—or by around-the-clock sessions; or by that hard-to-come-by 64 votes for cloture.

A Man's Own Destiny

By TRUMAN TWILL

I saw Bob Feller r'ar back and throw that fast ball when he was still a wild teen-ager. I have shared his baseball career, boy and man, to the bitter end when he was bench-warming because the manager of his team had no confidence in his ability to get anyone out any more.

Feller did not want to be a bench-warmer. He wanted to be on the team until in his own judgment his career was through. It was no secret that his judgment in this respect was at odds with the judgment of the manager employed by the people who owned his contract and, under baseball's reserve clause, had the power to play God with his fate. He had made a mint of money, but he still wanted to control his own destiny.

This is the background for the testimony Feller gave to the congressional investigators looking for a way out of an un-American dilemma. What can be done to correct the power to play God with another man's life in organized baseball?

I am shocked at the point of view that Feller has nothing to object to in his role as spokesman for baseball players — that all players should jump at a chance to be owned outright. It is a point of view so diametrically opposed to everything Americans believe in that it is incredible.

Ballplayers, runs the argument, should like to be chattels because many of them are extraordinarily well paid and all of them are well fed and provided with juicy prerogatives. Under these circumstances, it is contended, any man should be glad to let some other man be his master.

This is the standard argument that has been used by dictators, patrons, monarchs, paternalists and all others who relish the role of playing God. It was the argument of the Tories who squawked when a lot of wild-eyed revolutionists decided to be their own masters in 1776.

The Tories thought their fellow colonists should be grateful because the British were willing to go to so much trouble to take care of them. Fortunately, the Tories did not win the argument.

Fortunately, nobody wins the argument in America. Otherwise, all of us could be converted into upright - walking livestock owned outright by the people who would welcome a chance to own their fellowmen.

The claim that this must be done in baseball to keep the wealthiest clubs from cornering all the talent is supposed to be strong. In fact, it is so weak it should be hooted out of existence. If it were true, every well heeled enterprise in the United States would have been able to drive its struggling competitors to the wall long ago.

It does not work that way — and one of the reasons it does not work is because not everybody is for sale to the highest bidder. Baseball, itself, is packed with stories about prospects who refused to sign up with the highest bidder, because they did not like the bidder, or because they liked someone in another outfit better.

Perhaps nothing can be done about it. But in a society that has been busy doing something about it, beginning in 1776, it does not behoove any American to use the fatuous argument that a man should be content to let another man own him like a dog.

Once Over

Comedians Versus Perspiration

These are tough days with the weekly-performance comedians. The entertainment world now knows suicide by airwave. Familiarity breeds the tuner-outer.

No comic can change his act every seven days and retain his audience, let alone his right mind.

You don't have to have quiet these days to hear a great comedian drop.

In no year in television or radio history have so many famed funnymen been shown to the toboggan slide.

THE MORTALITY has made most of them panicky and in their hysterical fears a couple of the top clowns have knocked themselves out far ahead of time by hastily scrapping surefire formats for a switch to routines nowhere near as good.

One comedian, who was the hottest of all a couple of years back, had a weekly serialized act with characters most actors would be glad to discover, but, running a fever over ratings, he abandoned this answer to a showman's prayer and shifted to old-time vaudeville bits.

It was like a strip cartoonist discovering a great set of characters and throwing it overboard to do comic valentines or greeting cards.

ANOTHER COMEDIAN, Sid Caesar, in a class by himself when it comes to originality, taste and effort, knocked himself off the airwaves through sheer stubbornness in wanting to cover too much ground too often.

Caesar came up with a brand new set of acts every week, something no entertainer in history has ever been able to do and hold his audience.

Even under this strain, he managed to do one or two pretty wonderful sketches each week.

But he tried to take in more territory in Caesar's Hour than Julius covered in Caesar's entire Roman Empire career.

Not until TV came along was there a comedian on earth who thought he could stretch himself so far so often.

DOWN THROUGH the annals of entertainment the top comedians were lads who got together a good act and played it for years.

A few played it for life. They considered it suicidal to make slight alterations. Hundreds earned fame and fortune through sticking to a single routine.

Since TV came in they have been forced to come up with a completely fresh show every seven days. Few things are deadlier than last week's TV act. The result has been a rat race and nervous prostration, chronic irascibility and prolonged confusion as the goals.

IN THEIR ANXIETY to perform the miracle most of the clowns have been confusing energy with wit and sweat with humor. They have been judging their success by their perspiration and headaches.

Sid Caesar leaves NBC because he won't stop up willingly and ration himself. "I want to work more, not less," he says.

"After nine years I feel that TV is just starting and that the surface hasn't been scratched." The point is, however, that the comedians will be scratched if they don't parcel themselves out in smaller doses.

There's no business like show business. Yeah. But it ain't miracle business.

THE "COMEBACK" of Ed Wynn is a topic of the season, but in our book Ed never went away. As a truly talented comedian he has had few equals and it is hard to name one who has come close to him in originality of ideas and routines.

Styles in comics have undergone a decent change, especially on TV, and some genuinely funny men have been developed. But most of the current clowns are little more than brassy gagsters, dependent wholly on nerve, an army of writers, warmed-over gags, Broadway wisecracks and the "Am I too fast for you?" mood.

But his greatest hat switch of all is his transfer from the hat of buffoonery to the headgear of a serious dramatic actor.

House May Give Soil Bank OK

Voted Last May To Kill Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, which voted in May to kill the major part of the Eisenhower farm soil bank program after this year, appeared ready today to back down and grant it one more year of life.

The year's extension was contained in a Senate-House compromise on a $3,600,000,000 agriculture appropriation bill for the fiscal year that started July 1.

In addition to money for the current year, the compromise measure would provide authority for a 500 million dollar appropriation for next year's acreage reserve program. Under that program farmers are paid for taking land out of production of basic crops that are in surplus.

Rep. Harrison (D-Va.), who led the successful House fight to end the payments after this year, indicated he may not press the battle anew. "I still don't like it," he added.

The compromise bill would limit sign-ups for acreage reserve contracts to crops normally planted by July 1 next year, and would halt all payments after Sept. 15, 1958.

Harrison told a reporter the cut-off date should prevent use of soil bank funds in next year's congressional elections.

"Use of this money in the elections last year was disgraceful," he said, echoing charges made during last year's campaign that payments to farmers were hurried into strategic areas just before the election.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson told the House Agriculture Committee in January there was "absolutely no truth" to such allegations. He said he had tried to administer the program "honestly and fairly."

Senate and House conferees said they expected the compromise to be passed by the House without too much trouble. Democratic and Republican conferees were united in their support of the bill.

The compromise would put a $3,000 limitation on the amount of Soil Bank money any one farmer can receive.

The bill also would direct the government to see that farmers make a genuine effort to reduce their total production by the amount of crop land they place in the soil bank.

The conservation reserve program also would be tightened up by a directive to the Secretary of Agriculture to "give careful consideration" to the value of the land converted to trees, grass and other long-range conservation purposes. The government also makes payments for this land, under the soil bank program.

The bill would authorize 325 million dollars for conservation reserve payments. The House voted 250 million dollars, the Senate 350 millions.

Practical Joke Not Funny To Justice

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio (AP)—A justice of the peace had the last word in a practical joke which didn't seem very funny to the victims.

Fred Ruegsegger, 18, Dundee, and Donald Slemmer, 28, near Strasburg, drew 90-day jail terms and fines of $200 and costs each.

Justice Russell Scheer pronounced the sentences Monday after charges had been filed by Jonas Miller of Dundee and Moses L. Yoder of Barrs Mills. Miller and Yoder left their horses and buggies tied to a hitching rack in Sugar Creek. The other pair hid one horse and turned another loose in a field. Deputy Elmer McClafferty said it took two hours to locate one of the animals.

Said the justice to the defendants: "Thirty years ago they might have shot you and then asked questions."

Never waste the brown residue that sticks to the skillet when you are cooking chicken in a small amount of fat. After the chicken pieces are removed, add a little liquid to the pan and stir and scrape (with a wooden spoon) over low heat to dissolve the residue. Then strain and use as natural gravy, or thicken for a regular gravy or sauce.

Lakewood Mother's Death Under Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — A coroner's verdict still is awaited in the death of a 32-year-old Lakewood mother whose nearly nude body was found at the foot of a neighbor's basement stairs.

Mrs. Mary Dick, 38, mother of two small daughters, was found unconscious and dying by her husband, James G. Dick, 42, district manager of a wax company. The couple had quarreled Saturday evening. He reported finding the body late Sunday. The neighbors were away on vacation and had left the keys with the Dicks.

"We don't see anything at all right now that would lead us to believe this was anything but an accident," said Detective Stanley K. Baxter of the Lakewood police. "She could have been pushed down those stairs, of course, but probably not."

Coroner Samuel R. Gerber said an autopsy showed the woman died of a fractured skull. There was a wound on the back of her head, but it might have been caused by her fall to the concrete floor, he said.

Girard

pan was unconstitutional. At one point the called the status-of-forces agreements a "sell-out" program that strips constitutional rights from soldiers.

Not Authorized To Shoot

Rankin's argument was that while Girard was on official duty, he was not authorized to shoot and it was not necessary to shoot.

Under the agreement with Japan, said the solicitor general, the executive branch of government in deciding to turn Girard over to Japan made a decision that could not be considered unreasonable or capricious.

He contended Girard has no personal immunity from prosecution by Japan.

The soldier, a specialist third class from Ottawa, Ill., is confined to Camp Whittington, a U.S. Army base near Tokyo.

Girard's lawyers want the Supreme Court to issue a writ of habeas corpus, releasing the soldier from Army detention at the camp.

The attorney's also want the Supreme Court to affirm the decision by U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy here. McGarraghy said the government could not turn Girard over to Japan and if he is to be tried it must be by U.S. court-martial.

The government is appealing from the part of the decision which forbids it to turn Girard over for a Japanese trial.

RAPS STEEL PRICE HIKE

Civil Rights

ing the last half of the week with Southern's speeches explaining the bill.

Debate Limitation Vote

Russell declined to say whether these will continue until Knowland and other supporters decide to try to force the issue with a debate limitation vote. Knowland has indicated he will not attempt that until next week.

The affirmative votes of 64 senators are required to limit debate. Because Knowland might be able to summon that many among Republicans and Northern Democrats who are supporting the bill, Southerners are reluctant to make a test on the preliminary issue.

Apparently they feel they would be in better position to maintain a filibuster against actual voting on the measure if they avoid losing on a test on the issue of whether the Senate shall even consider it.

One Southern strategist said that once the bill actually comes before the Senate, he believes a debate limitation can be defeated by four votes unless the measure is amended to provide for jury trials of those accused of violating civil rights injunctions.

Amendment Proposed

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) proposed such an amendment Monday. Russell said in an interview that while it was not entirely satisfactory, he would accept it.

As passed by the House, the bill would permit the attorney general to go into federal courts to get injunctions against claimed or threatened violations of all of the civil rights defined by the Supreme Court. These include voting rights and racial integration in the schools and public places.

Violators of these injunctions could be sentenced for contempt, with no right to jury trial.

O'Mahoney proposed that in all except voting cases a jury should be summoned to determine all "questions of fact." In cases involving voting rights, the presiding judge would summon a jury only if he determined that matters of fact were in dispute.

Russell said that was "better than having jury trials prohibited in such cases."

Would Create Confusion

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill), one of the sponsors of the measure, said the O'Mahoney proposal would create "endless confusion."

In an effort to get softening of the bill's terms, Russell asked for a conference with President Eisenhower. Eisenhower has expressed surprise at the contention of Russell and others that the measure is "vicious" in its terms. They contend it would reaffirm authority for the use of troops to enforce court orders.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said no time had been arranged for Russell to see Eisenhower. Hagerty added that after conferring with Atty. Gen. Brownell on the measure's terms, Eisenhower's position in support of the House measure remains unchanged.

Bunning Named AL All-Star Starting Pitcher

Stengel Fumes Over Tactics Used By Opposing Managers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Casey Stengel continued to voice his displeasure over the fans' All-Star vote, as well as tactics used by rival American League managers, as Jim Bunning, his "second choice" starter, prepared to face Philadelphia's Curt Simmons in the silver anniversary of the annual All-Star game today.

The manager of the New York Yankees, in disagreement with the fans over several of their All-Star selections, and indignant because Cleveland used pitcher Early Wynn, his originally intended starter, last Sunday, promised some changes next year.

"I think the present way of picking the players should be continued even if they are not done the right way. It's an honor to be on the team and it doesn't make any difference who chooses them. Sometimes it looks like politicians are at work and there are one or two players on my team I'd be a little leery of starting. The way they voted in a certain city could kill the whole thing, but you don't want to rob the public who comes to the game."

Stengel then disclosed he will propose a rule prohibiting managers from starting pitchers who have been named to the All-Star team any later than Saturday prior to the big game. That would assure at least two days' rest.

"I had planned to start Wynn," Stengel explained, "because of his experience and his knowledge of the National League players but when I learned he pitched Sunday I switched to Bunning because he, too, is a righthander and is the most rested."

Realizing that his words might be construed as a reflection upon the young Tiger fireball, Casey added:

"I don't want to criticize my starting pitcher. After all, he owns one of the best records and has beaten every club in the league, including us two or three times."

Stengel's criticism of Cleveland's use of Wynn Sunday drew a sharp reply from Kerby Farrell, rookie manager of the Indians.

"I'm a hell of a lot more interested in beating the Chicago White Sox in a doubleheader than winning the All-Star game," he said.

Brooklyn Manager Walter Alston, who will direct the National League, said he sympathized with Stengel's attitude, but added he didn't see how the pilots could be asked to sacrifice using a star pitcher in a close pennant race.

Stengel, who is sensitive about his All-Star managerial record (he's lost five of six games), was not particularly happy over the selections of Detroit's Harvey Kuenn at shortstop, Cleveland's Vic Wertz at first base and Baltimore's George Kell at third base. He made no secret of his belief that his own Bill Skowron at first, Gil McDougald at shortstop and Boston's Frank Malzone at third would give his league better representation.

"I plan to make some changes as soon as I'm permitted," he said. (After the first three innings) "Everybody knows that Wertz has physical handicaps and I'm told he is very tired. Kuenn hasn't been having one of his best seasons and I've got to say that McDougald, during the past four or five days, has been playing the best shortstop in the league. Kell has been hit twice with pitched balls and lately he's been shifted to first base. They tell me that Malzone has been playing great ball and I've seen him do it myself."

Alston played the percentage by naming Simmons, the veteran left-hander who has an 8-4 record. The American League batting order is strongly southpaw with five of the starters batting from the left side.

About his changes in other spots, Alston said: "If we fall behind in the first three innings, I'll want to get more punch in there. If we're ahead though, you couldn't ask for a better infield than we have," meaning Johnny Temple, Roy McMillan, Don Hoak and Stan Musial.

Despite Stengel's seeming lack of enthusiasm over his team, the odds-makers lowered the price from 6-5 favoring the American League to 11-10 pick-em.

Fishermen Set Out In Tackle Tourney
OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—Luxury fishermen from across the continent, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Panama and Cuba sought white marlin today with the common angler's prayer, "hope they're biting."

Nearly 100 fishermen set out in a fleet of 33 charter boats to start three days of competition in the 12th annual International light tackle tournament.

Prizes in the tournament are awarded on the basis of the number and speed of catches. Weight doesn't count.

Contestants may choose to use one of two lines testing 20 or 30 pounds deadweight. Marlin average around 70 pounds. A hooked one has to be hoisted within 45 minutes or no score is awarded.

"I plan to make some changes as soon as I'm permitted," he said. (After the first three innings) "Everybody knows that Wertz has physical handicaps and I'm told he is very tired. Kuenn hasn't been having one of his best seasons and I've got to say that McDougald, during the past four or five days, has been playing the best shortstop in the league. Kell has been hit twice with pitched balls and lately he's been shifted to first base. They tell me that Malzone has been playing great ball and I've seen him do it myself."

Alston played the percentage by naming Simmons, the veteran left-hander who has an 8-4 record. The American League batting order is strongly southpaw with five of the starters batting from the left side.

About his changes in other spots, Alston said: "If we fall behind in the first three innings, I'll want to get more punch in there. If we're ahead though, you couldn't ask for a better infield than we have," meaning Johnny Temple, Roy McMillan, Don Hoak and Stan Musial.

Despite Stengel's seeming lack of enthusiasm over his team, the odds-makers lowered the price from 6-5 favoring the American League to 11-10 pick-em.

Fishermen Set Out In Tackle Tourney
OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP)—Luxury fishermen from across the continent, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Panama and Cuba sought white marlin today with the common angler's prayer, "hope they're biting."

Nearly 100 fishermen set out in a fleet of 33 charter boats to start three days of competition in the 12th annual International light tackle tournament.

Prizes in the tournament are awarded on the basis of the number and speed of catches. Weight doesn't count.

Contestants may choose to use one of two lines testing 20 or 30 pounds deadweight. Marlin average around 70 pounds. A hooked one has to be hoisted within 45 minutes or no score is awarded.

Frick Re-elected To 7-Year Term

Salary Will Be $65,000 Per Year

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick, re-elected to a seven-year term at $65,000 per year, thinks it is "inconceivable" that New York should become a one-club town.

In the face of consistent reports that the Brooklyn Dodgers are going to Los Angeles and the New York Giants to San Francisco, the commissioner expressed a "purely personal opinion" today on the New York situation.

"I think it is inconceivable that an area with a population of 15 million should have only one franchise," he said. "If the Dodgers and Giants should move—and I am not saying they will—I think the territory should be left open for another team. I think it should be declared open territory for any league."

"Understand this is my personal feeling not any official statement from my office."

The matter of franchise moves came up at the National League meeting, shortly before the 62-year-old Frick was re-elected at the joint meeting of the two leagues for a term running to Sept. 21, 1965. His current term expires in 1958.

The Dodgers and Giants got permission to move to Los Angeles and San Francisco at a special National League meeting in Chicago, May 28. President Warren Giles said he brought up the matter himself.

"I think it is incumbent upon the president of the National League to ask Mr. O'Malley (Walter O'Malley, Dodger president) and Mr. Stoneham (Horace Stoneham, Giants president) if they have anything definite to report," said Giles. "I turned directly to both men and both answered 'not a thing.'"

A report Cleveland would move to Minneapolis by acquiring the Giants' interests in Minneapolis was denied by Cleveland officials.

By FRITZ HOWELL
SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A field of 186, studded with stars who have won various Buckeye titles, today went into the first half of a 36-hole qualifier in the 51st Ohio Amateur golf championship.

Springfield Country Club's rolling, trap-infested 6,545-yard, par 72 course is the battleground. At the end of the two-day qualifier, the 64 low scorers will dash into match play, ending with Sunday's 36-hole title clash.

Favored to fight it out for medal honors are Bob Rankin of Zanesville, the 1955 champion who has four straight practice rounds under par; Jackie Nicklaus, the Columbus teenager who has won the state high school crown the last two years, and last season whipped the state's best professionals to become the third amateur ever to win the Ohio Open title; and who won Buckeye Junior laurels in 1955 and 1956.

Bob McCall, who won the title a year ago as a Cleveland resident, was ruled ineligible to defend his crown because he has moved to Indiana, but Rankin and four other ex-champions will try to win again. They are John Florio, Columbus veteran who triumphed in 1929 and 1932; Ed Preisler of Cleveland, the 1946 winner who just two weeks ago tied for the Pre-Seniors crown; Tom Jones, Youngstown redhead who won in 1951 and Francis Cardo of Columbus, the 1952 victor.

Olympic Champion Offered $10,000

Teddy Brenner Seeks To Pair Rademacher With Alex Miteff

NEW YORK (AP)—Teddy Brenner, an imaginative matchmaker, today sought to pair Olympic champion Pete Rademacher and Argentina's Alex Miteff, the 1955 Pan-American king, for New York in August.

"I'm wiring Rademacher an offer of $10,000 to fight Miteff in August," said Brenner after watching the unbeaten Argentine stop Philadelphia's Fernando Fala on cuts in two rounds Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena.

"If Rademacher agrees, I'll try and rent Madison Square Garden for the fight."

It was pointed out to Brenner that Rademacher, who never has fought pro, had a commitment to fight world heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in Seattle in August, providing Patterson beats Hurricane Jackson.

"If Jack Hurley (Seattle promoter) can dream up a Patterson-Rademacher fight, what's crazy about trying to match the Olympic and Pan-American champs?" asked Brenner.

Miteff and his manager, Hymie Wallman, said they'd be happy to take on Rademacher.

Fala, who had a 17-1 record and had won six straight, had two deep, wide cuts over his right eye requiring 15 stitches. Referee Barney Felix stopped the slambang scrap, after the second round ended, at the suggestion of Dr. Sam Swetnick.

Redlegs Search For New Hurlers

Pitching Coach Sent To Observe Southpaw

ST. LOUIS (AP)—While standout members of the Cincinnati Redlegs are toiling in today's All-Star Game here, team brass will be quietly hunting needed pitching talent.

Since the deadline for trades with other major league teams has passed, the Reds' best prospects are on team farm clubs.

Pitching coach Tom Ferrick was dispatched to the West Coast Monday to watch Charley Rabe in his next start for Seattle of the Pacific Coast League.

Rabe, a southpaw Texan, trained with the Redlegs this spring but was sent to Seattle. He has compiled a 10-5 record.

Redleg officials also have their eyes on Bob Kelly, who has hurled 16 victories against four defeats for Nashville, current leader in the Southern Assn.

The Redleg pitching problem became acute Sunday in a doubleheader with St. Louis here when Hal Jeffcoat, who owns an 8-6 record, had to be replaced because of a pulled neck muscle.

That injury was not as serious as one a few innings later. A hard-hit ball caromed off the foot of reliever Herschel Freeman and sidelined him indefinitely with a painful bruise.

The Redleg pitching troubles have been most marked in recent week. In the last 10 games, the Reds have put in 36 hurlers, including seven in Sunday's nightcap.

The Reds have lost the last five games, plummeting from first to fourth place in the National League.

Tennis Star To Receive $125,000

Hoad Signs Monday To Play For Jack Kramer's Troupe

NEW YORK (AP)—A professional just one day. Lew Hoad today found himself the middleman in international war of tennis nerves. Hoad, the big Australian Davis

Cup star, signed Monday to play for Jack Kramer's troupe for the fastest figure ever given a pro player—$125,000 for two years. The ink still was wet on the contract when in rapid-fire order:

1. Pancho Gonzales, the man Hoad was signed to play, said he would not appear in Kramer's "Tournament of Champions" starting Saturday in Forest Hills. 2. The Lawn Tennis Assn. of Australia launched a move to ban Hoad and Kramer's entire troupe from playing on any official courts Down Under.

The sudden turn of events left Hoad, who only last Friday won his second straight Wimbledon championship, bewildered. He was especially hurt at remarks by officials in Australia, accusing him of breaking his word.

Don Ferguson, president of the LTAA, accused him of "causing great disappointment to the tennis public and officials in Ireland, Europe and America, in which countries we had arranged for him to play as a member of the Australian team."

"I don't know why Mr. Ferguson said those things," said Hoad, obviously distressed. "I had to be guided by my own interests. I didn't know when my back might act up again."

He was referring to the fact that his back has bothered him on numerous occasions in the past year and on occasion, he has been forced to take long layoffs.

Gonzales, the pro champion, said in Los Angeles that he would not play in either the Forest Hills tournament or one scheduled to start in Los Angeles July 29.

"They'll hurt the gate of our tour," he said. Hoad and Hoad are to start a world 100-match tour next January.

Kramer, the money-man, took it all with an air of calm. "This is a situation like a horse telling a trainer when he can run," said the handsome ex-U.S. Cupper turned impresario. "Pan-contract to me. I will admit his contract says he doesn't have to play in a tournament of more than seven days."

"Therefore, I made him an offer to play only seven days of the tournament. I want to bring this to a head and I expect to have it cleared up by Wednesday."

The LTAA, apparently fed up with Australian stars turning pro, has called a meeting for Aug. 4 to discuss "amateur-professional" relationships. Apparently the LTAA intends to ask its member associations to refuse use of their courts to Kramer's troupe. This could prove a serious hindrance to the tour.

Green Bay Packers Sign Carlton Massey GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Defensive end Carlton Massey, acquired in a trade with the Cleveland Browns, has signed with the Green Bay Packers for the 1957 National Football League season, it was announced today.

Vern Mikkelsen of the Minneapolis Lakers was a rough customer in the National Basketball Assn. last season. He committed 312 personal fouls and was disqualified from 18 league games.

Rev. and Mrs. Longworth Leave For Month-Long Tour Of Europe

COLUMBIANA — Rev. and Mrs. William S. Longworth of the Columbiana Methodist Church were to leave Youngstown airport at 8:45 a.m. Monday for a day and a half in New York City before leaving on Wednesday for Glasgow, Scotland on the first leg of a European tour. They expect to return to Columbiana August 9. The tourist party will consist of ministers and their wives. They are meeting in New York to become acquainted and learn the aims of the tour before starting.

Rev. Longworth was re-assigned to the Columbiana church by the recent Northeast Ohio Methodist Conference at Lakewood. As a token of its appreciation of his nine years here, the church is sending him and Mrs. Longworth on this European trip. All departments of the church including Sunday School classes are participating.

Conducted by Dr. Kirby Page, lecturer and author of spiritual life books, the trip is described as a peace and "good will" tour, designed to learn what may be the basis of real peace. French communists and East German government advisers will be interviewed to learn their views of problems relating to world peace. After Glasgow, stops are scheduled for London, Paris, Geneva, Lucerne, Zurich, Frankfurt, Berlin and Hamburg. The entire trip will be by plane except for local side trips.

IN WEST GERMANY, a visit is scheduled with Pastor Niemoeller, who led church resistance against Hitler. There will be three seminars, one near Paris and two in West Berlin. Interviews have also been arranged with U.S. and European church local governments and educational leaders besides UN and NATO leaders on the situation affecting peace.

During the pastor's absence, the Methodist pulpit will be filled by Rev. A. R. Brown of Columbiana for three Sundays. On July 28, R. H. Longworth, county superintendent of schools and state representative from Carroll county and a brother of the pastor, will preach.

Of the five Longworth children, Mary Lou and Della will stay with Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Scheidemantle of the Presbyterian church. William and James will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurer and John with Mr. and Mrs. George Seederly.

Rev. Waldo J. Bartels, former pastor of Grace Evangelical and Reformed church of Columbiana and now pastor of the Federated church at Pomeroy, will be honored next Sunday in celebration of the 40th anniversary of his ordination in the church he is now serving. Rev. Bartels was also baptized in the same church, which was originally of the Reformed denomination and later of the Evangelical and Reformed. It then became the Federated church. Mr. and Mrs. Bartels will observe the 40th anniversary of their marriage in October.

Rev. Bartels left Columbiana in 1951 after having served eight years as pastor of Grace church. Dinner reservations for the celebration may be made with Miss Erma Smith of the church at Pomeroy.

DIRECTORS of the Columbiana and Mahoning County Potato Growers' association will meet in the office of the Columbiana Farm Bureau Co-operative at 8:30 p.m. Thursday. It is expected that plans will be completed for a twilight meeting of growers July 23.

Sunset Temple, Pythian Sisters of Columbiana, will have a 48th anniversary dinner at Heck's restaurant at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Entertainment will follow the dinner. Mrs. Iona Wisler is chief of the temple. Mrs. Marie Allen and Mrs. Edna Hively make up the committee.

Priscilla Circle of the Christian Church will have a picnic at an open pavilion in Firestone Park Thursday evening. Anna Gidley and Mertie Mays will be hostesses.

Presbyterian women will observe work day at the church Thursday beginning at 11 a.m.

Hobo King Invites O'Neill To Convention

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "King" of the hoboes called on Gov. C. William O'Neill Monday with an invitation to attend the annual convention of the "Knights of the Road" next month in Britt, Iowa.

Sam H. "King" Cole stopped on his tour to drum up interest in the convention. He said he has hit 23 states so far, traveling "first class all the way," except for some hitch-hiking.

O'Neill said he would issue a proclamation making Cole an honorary citizen of Ohio, an honor already extended by several other states.

Mud Puppy Article Is Challenged By Feminine Readers

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Want to provoke a challenge on your home grounds?

Try making a few light-hearted but positive statements about wildlife, or about women. If neither works, try both.

Some such ill-advised comments were offered in this space recently about mud puppies—the little watery salamanders with the king-size case of the uglies—and how mere sight of them could vanquish the girls.

The very next day, while the ill-advised commentator was at dinner, a gorgeous blonde lady summoned him to the door. "Did you write the story about mud puppies?" asked the gorgeous blonde. The commentator acknowledged his guilt. The g. b. delivered into a satchel with a graceful manicured hand, pulled out a hideous object and asked sweetly, "Is this one?"

"Yes," the commentator observed wanly.

Even a glimpse of the thing would have melted a cast iron statue of Chief Crazy Horse.

If that wasn't enough, along came a letter from Mrs. Oscar Erickson of Bark River, Mich. Mud puppies, wrote Mrs. Erickson, certainly are nearly as stated, and she certainly ought to know—she's had one in the house as a pet for two years.

Her fisherman husband brought one home and after six months or so the Erickson mud puppy thrived as a pet.

"It's very tame and friendly now," Mrs. Erickson declared. "And homely as it is I wouldn't part with it, although I can't tell you how many people have asked how I could stay in the house with a thing like that."

Well, all right then. Next question.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Low Backache

Mrs. M. S. raises a question which is of enormous interest to many and is extremely difficult to discuss. This is the problem of the low backache.

There are so many possible causes for backache that it is frequently difficult to find out which one is at fault in a particular case.

Backache can be the result of injury, disturbances in the internal organs, or infection. I believe as many as 50 different possible causes have been incriminated at one time or another.

One well-known cause for low backache, however, is a ruptured intervertebral disc. When there is pain in the lower portion of the back or down the course of the sciatic nerve along the back of the leg, a rupture or hernia of this cartilage must be suspected. Diagnosis can usually be made by a careful study of the history of the pain.

An X-ray may not show anything immediately after the rupture has occurred. After a while, however, the rupture of a disc will cause a narrowing of the space between the bones of the vertebral column.

Most of those have a first attack of pain caused by a ruptured disc are treated conservatively (that is without surgery). Also conservative treatment is usually advised for those who have mild attacks, attacks coming far apart and those who are over 50 and for those in whom the diagnosis is in doubt.

In some, an operation has to be considered.

The operation employed in such cases may be removal of the ruptured disc or a fusion or binding together of the two vertebral bones between which the disc lies.

For certain kinds of backache, heat, massage, exercise, support by means of corsets or braces and bandages, rest under favorable circumstances and similar measures are part of the treatment.

If the trouble is in a joint, an operation may be necessary to fuse the bone.

Certain kinds of backache appear to be made worse by mattresses which are too soft. For this reason, treatment often includes the use of a hard mattress or a board inserted between the mattress and the box spring.

State Education Board Member Resigns Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Joseph D. Stecher of Toledo, whose recent appointment as executive director of the American Bar Assn. makes it necessary for him to move to Chicago, has resigned from the State Board of Education.

Stecher's resignation was announced at Monday night's monthly board meeting.

The board also heard an appeal from W. J. Hilty, superintendent of the Fayette County school district, that a postponement be granted in annexing 167 acres of the district to the Washington Court House school district. Hilty asked the delay until the Washington Court House boards builds a school on the proposed annexation area.

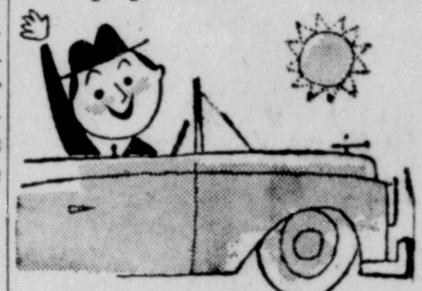

Later in the evening, the staff of the State Education Department and several legislators attended a reception for Edward E. Holt, new superintendent of public instruction, and Mrs. Holt, in the Deshler Hilton Hotel here. The Hults have moved from Springfield to Columbus.

Ford wins the battle of the builds

Sure! Many people buy Fords because of their long, low, whistle-collecting looks. Do you blame them? But beauty alone isn't enough to earn for a car the No. 1 spot in America's heart. And that's just what Ford has earned. The real secrets of Ford's success are the extra values that go into building a Ford. Let's look at a few of these features. Ford shares them only with a select number of America's most expensive cars. But you get them at low Ford prices.

1. Only Ford in its field has a frame design that lets you ride within the side members for greater roominess, smoothness and safety.
2. Only Ford in its field gives you a modern V-8 engine with rigid, deep-block design for smoother, quieter, longer-lived operation.
3. Only Ford in its field offers automatic variable-rate rear springs that automatically adjust to give a smoother ride on roughest roads.
4. Only Ford in its field offers new sweep-back ball-joint front suspension that "rolls with the punch."
5. Only Ford in its field offers as many as five strengthening roof cross members for a more rigid roof.
